Cloud Whisperers — Analytical Plate I

The Listening Sequence

Every seeing carries three states: the witness, the translation, and the becoming.
The interpreter stands in the middle — neither skeptic nor believer — only one who notices how form answers perception.

In this triglyph, the clouds reveal their layered selves:
the unaltered field, the analytical vision, and the luminous embodiment.
What begins as atmosphere becomes syntax — a dialogue of light.
To look is to be changed by what returns the gaze.
